Nominations and Platform of the [illegible] Party in Louisiana

Baton Rouge, August [illegible].—The Congressional Commissioners nominated Randall Gibson for the First District, William Levy for the Fourth District and B F Spencer for the Fifth District. The State Convention nominated J C Moncure for State Treasurer and adjourned.

The resolutions and platform describe the party as made up of white people, embracing the Democratic, Conservative, Reform, Liberal and White Man's parties, with all opposing the present usurpation in Louisiana, which is maintained by force illegally. They claim that the dominant party has inflamed the negroes, making a unity of whites a necessity; that while recognizing all Constitutional rights, they protest against encroachments [illegible] the social equality of the races; that much needed reforms can only be effected by the election of whites. They disclaim any intention of carrying the election forcibly; they denounce Gov Kellogg as a usurper and favor the payment of the State's legitimate debts only.

A Bourbon Fizzle in Illinois.

Springfield, August 26.—The Bourbon Democratic Convention called to meet here to-day by Joe Eddy, Chairman of the O'Connor State Central Committee, was a failure. Gen Singleton was elected temporary President and the Convention adjourned till to-morrow.

London, Aug 26.—The German Government has [illegible] notified powers that it will not interfere in the [illegible] affairs of Spain.

A ROMANCE OF HOLLAND HOUSE.

Some thirty years ago, or thereabouts, a bright, clever girl was among the inmates of Holland House. She was there known as Miss Fox, the adopted daughter of the fourth Lord Holland. As to her parentage there were abundant guesses, but nobody knew the truth. That she was received at the court of Queen Victoria had to be accepted as sufficient proof that there was no stain upon her descent. She grew up to be a belle of the season and three or four years ago it was gossipped that she was about to make one of the most brilliant [illegible] in England. But the fates willed otherwise. The announced groom took to himself another wife, and in 1873 Miss Fox was married to the German Prince John of Liechtenstein.

Liechtenstein is a sovereign principality but the very smallest in Europe. Its population is about 8,000, its revenues about 60,000 Austrian florins, say $30,000, expenditures about $[illegible],000 less, and there is no public debt, so that, according to Mr Micawber's famous axiom, the little principality is about the only rich State in Europe. The Prince of Liechtenstein, however, the head of the house of [illegible] is perhaps the very oldest sovereign family in Europe, far antedating the Romanoffs and [illegible] the Bourbons, Hapsburgs and Hohenzollerns. We suppose that any scion of any royal house, king or kaiser, might with [illegible] intermarry with a scion of the house of Liechtenstein. But Prince John has [illegible] to his name. Besides being Sovereign Prince of Liechtenstein, he is Duke of [illegible] and Jagerndorf, Count of Rietberg, Hereditary Councillor of the Empire, Chevalier of the Order of the Golden Fleece and Honorary Baillie of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, and independent of his sovereign rank, he is one of the richest nobles of Germany. He has estates in Austria, Prussia, and Saxony, upon which reside 600,000 tenants, and from which he receives an annual income of 1,400,000 florins, not far from $750,000. His new wife, lately Miss Fox, is the "Princess Marie of Liechtenstein," author of the book "Holland House," before referred to, from which and from various other sources, have been drawn the materials for this paper.—Alfred H. Guernsey, in the Galaxy for September.

Story About a Youthful Sympathizer with Boss Shepherd.—In a Washington Sunday school the lady teacher propounded this conundrum to her class: "Who betrayed our Saviour?" This was too much for the little ones, and one after another gave it up. The query was repeated, when one little seven-year-old [illegible] "Oh, I know; it was Charles A. Dana; he's a bad man."

PACIFIC COAST NEWS.

CALIFORNIA

From San Francisco

San Francisco, August 26.—The habeas corpus case of the 22 Chinese women from the steamer Japan was not concluded this evening, but continued till to-morrow and the women taken back to jail.

City very quiet—few arrests.

The Pavilion of the Mechanics' Fair crowded to-night.

J. Ganteran was arrested to-night for felony in destroying a promissory note.

The steamer Montana sailed for Panama to-day, carrying 1,700 tons merchandise for New York and Europe and 158 passengers. The Salvador also sailed for Panama.

Geyser Quicksilver Mining Company and Mercury Quicksilver Mining Company were incorporated to-day, each with a capital of $6,000,000, divided into 60,000 shares.

The Fifteenth District Court to-day, in the case of Michael Reese vs. Central Pacific Railroad, Milton S. Latham et al, granted plaintiff twenty days time to plead to the answer of defendant Latham or to make a motion to strike out answer, or any part thereof, or make such motions, or take such proceedings in respect to the answer as he may be advised in the premises.

Interior California.

Petaluma, August 26.—A frightful runaway accident occurred in Petaluma about 4 o'clock this afternoon, by which three persons were badly injured—it was thought fatally. Mr John Todd and wife and Mrs Munday, widow of the late Hon. B. B. Munday, had been to town and were just starting for home in the country, when they were overtaken by a runaway team, which dashed furiously against them, overturning their wagon and throwing all violently to the ground. They were removed to the nearest house. Mr Todd's injuries are found very serious, a piece of scalp being torn off and the skull laid bare and otherwise badly bruised. There is no hope of his recovery. Mrs Munday is also badly injured, one of the horses' feet having, it is thought, struck her in the back. She is suffering much pain internally. Mrs Todd's head and face is cut, but she is not thought to be in any danger.

San Jose, August 26.—The case of the people vs Mrs Jennie McNamee, charged with child stealing, was up before Justice Williamson for preliminary examination this afternoon. The evidence introduced did not warrant the Justice in holding her and she was discharged. She is to appear before Judge Belden of the District Court to-morrow on a writ of habeas corpus from the Supreme Court to produce the child. The little one is yet at Stockton, and it is presumed she will appear and plead that at the time the order was served on her she was in custody of an officer, and has been since, and that she could not produce the child in time. In such an event a stay will be granted, and time allowed her. The case is causing much comment here. During the examination to-day the street in front of the Justice's office was thronged with people.

Shasta, August 26.—John E Baker, aged twenty-six years, and Charles Crouch, aged eighteen, were executed here to-day at one o'clock, the former for the murder of George Cline, the mail rider, on the 30th December, 1873, and the latter for the murder of Mrs. Radler, January 24th, 1874. Last evening they manifested great contrition and penitence for their crimes and the rites of baptism were administered at their request. On the scaffold to-day Crouch said he had no statement to make. Baker, in a clear firm voice, addressed the assembly, briefly remarking that he had repented and felt that God had forgiven him. He said he cherished no ill will against any one and hoped all present would meet him in a better land. Just before stepping on the trap he said, "Good by everybody." Both exhibited great firmness and resignation on the trying occasion. Their death was almost instantaneous, their necks being broken in the fall. Crouch lived ten minutes, Baker eleven. Among those present were Sheriff Seleth, of Tehama, and Sheriff Philbrook, of Trinity.

NEVADA.

Pioche, August 26.—There was great and universal rejoicing in Pioche this afternoon on the reception of the news that the Supreme Court has dissolved the injunction granted by the District Court in the case of the Magnet Mining Co vs Page & Panaca S. M. Co. The last named company is owner of a valuable mine, and was enjoined some two months since in a suit from working upon and removing ore.

UNSCRUPULOUS BUT SHREWD

[Washington Letter to the Chicago Post.]

Not long ago the papers of the country were filled with accounts of the steamer Faraday and the new cable she was landing on the coast of New Hampshire. This calls to mind the history of a young journalist of this city, and I repeat it as of interest. The young man referred to came here soon after the close of the war, to correspond for the Chicago Post and Albany Journal. He was very young and inexperienced, but a good telegraph operator. Failing to secure the news he wanted by personal observation and investigation, he adopted a method which was as novel as it was successful. He could read the Morse alphabet by sound. This was his stock in trade. Upon it he operated, and for months was recognized as one of the most clever and enterprising news [illegible] at the capital. And all without any labor on his part. He would rise late, stroll down to the Capitol about noon (just when the other correspondents were sending off their dispatches), wander into the telegraph office, listen to the click of the wires, and then write and send a telegram containing all the important items the other men had gathered. It was easily done and eminently successful. Complaint was made of him, but it was unavailing. He overreached, however, and fell. The Washington treaty was being considered in Executive session of the Senate. The doors and windows were closed, but nothing could hinder our hero. He climbed to the top of the building, crept over the Senate Chamber, and, lying flat on his face, short-handed every word of the treaty as it came from the lips of the clerk and arose to the ceiling. He sold it to the New York Tribune. The New York Tribune correspondent was angry and exposed him, and his papers dismissed him. Unwilling to lie idle, he set his active brain at work inventing telegraph instruments. When the French cable had been laid he had been commissioned to report the event. He boarded the cable ship and watched the operations of the telegraphers. The method was this: A needle like that of a compass swung on a pivot. The current of electricity coming over the wire moved it to the right or left. A deviation to the right meant a dot, to the left a dash. Thus the Morse alphabet was used. The movements of the needle were so slight that a mirror of great magnifying power was necessary for its profitable reading. Even then but fifteen words could be communicated in an hour. Our hero thought he could do better. So, as I said, he set his wits to work, and after two years hard labor has just produced a machine. By it he can take fifty words a minute, or more than three times the number that could be received by the old process. A company of New York capitalists has been formed to operate the patent, and our hero is a millionaire, and but 25 years old.

Cast of the Rosetta Stone.—A valuable cast of the Rosetta stone has just been donated to the Essex Institute at Essex, Massachusetts. The stone of which this is a cast was discovered near Rosetta, in Lower Egypt, in August, 1799, and is now deposited in the British Museum. The inscription is in three languages—Hieroglyphic, Demotic or the language of the country, and Greek. Being counterparts or repetitions of each other, they gave the main key and help in deciphering the hieroglyphics of ancient Egypt. The event recorded by the Rosetta stone, the decree issued at the coronation of Ptolemy Epiphanes, took place at Memphis in March 196 B. C. The cast in the possession of the Institute is one of Ward's series and was made at Rochester, New York. —Boston Globe.

NEWS BREVITIES

[illegible] Washington county, Tenn [illegible] replace the [illegible] washed away by the flood.

Samuel J Tilden, Senator Stockton, Fernando Wood and other prominent Democrats have had an earnest conference at Long Branch.

Gen Braxton Bragg has been appointed chief engineer of the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe railroad, and will commence a survey of the line shortly, with a corps of two hundred men.

The present interest in the Maine canvass centers in the Republican nominations for the Legislature, whether for Hamlin or Washburn or Lorham or Drummond for United States Senator.

On Saturday the three year old son of G. W. Atchison, five miles south of Atlanta, (Ill.) was killed by a pitchfork thrown by its father from the top of a load of hay, the tines striking him a few inches below the heart, causing almost instant death.

J Proctor Knott, generally known as Hon Proc Knott, ex-Attorney General of Missouri, now a citizen of Kentucky, has been nominated Democratic candidate for Congress in the fourth district of that State—a district which he represented in a former Congress.

This appears to be an exceptionally good year to decline Republican nominations in Massachusetts. The whole party of 75,000 majority appears to be on the decline. The Worcester Gazette (Republican) is beginning to count up the Democratic majority in its own Congressional district.

The Bucks County (Pa.) Mirror says that there were two men in Doylestown last Wednesday for the purpose of seeing the circus, neither of whom had ever been to a circus, although 65 years of age. Both live within sight of Doylestown, and one of them, who has acquired three farms by his own thrift and exertion, had never been on a railroad train.

If President Grant really has any desire to be voted for a third term the action of the Pennsylvania Republican Convention must be unwelcome news. Not only did the Convention present Hartranft as their choice for the Presidency, but when a resolution indorsing Grant for the third term in the event of his acceptance was presented, it was unceremoniously voted down. This is the home of the Camerons. Hartranft, it may be remarked incidentally, was the best abused man in the United States when he made the successful canvass for the Pennsylvania Gubernatorial chair, and now he is esteemed a fit candidate for President.

Mr Wm Irwin, of Seneca, Ill., met with a fearful accident Saturday morning last—one almost without a parallel. He was hitching up a span of horses and while behind one of them with his back turned to the animal it kicked him, striking him violently on one shoulder and prostrating him upon his face. A mare running loose in the pasture near the scene, apparently a spectator of it, rushed upon the prostrate man and began to bite him and jumped upon him with all her feet, and had it not been for the timely assistance of a son of Mr Irwin, who ran as quickly as possible to the rescue, the horse would have trampled Mr Irwin to death. As it was, he was horribly cut and bruised.

WHERE OUR TOBACCO GROWS

A recent report of the Department of Agriculture gives some statistics concerning the culture of tobacco that are really interesting. The total area of land in the United States devoted to tobacco is quite small—only equal to twenty townships of land, or about a single average county. Cheshire county, New Hampshire, raises ninety-seven per cent of all the tobacco raised in that State. Franklin, Hampshire and Hampden counties, in Massachusetts, raise ninety-six per cent. of what is raised in Massachusetts. In Hartford county, Connecticut, are grown seven-tenths of all the tobacco credited to that State. Onondaga, Chemung and Steuben counties, in New York, raise eight-tenths of what is grown of this staple in the State. Three counties in Pennsylvania—Lancaster, York and Bucks—produce nearly all the tobacco grown.

Nine-tenths of this crop raised in Bucks county is grown in a single township (Falls), in close vicinity to the William Penn mansion. Five counties in Maryland grow sixty percent of the tobacco in that State. Twenty-four counties in Virginia produce two-thirds; ten counties in North Carolina three-fourths; Gadsden county, Florida, three-fourths; nine counties in Tennessee two-thirds; five counties in West Virginia two-thirds; forty-three counties in Kentucky raise seven-tenths; ten counties in Ohio grow two-thirds; nine counties in Missouri produce three-fourths; four counties in Indiana and six in Illinois produce most of the tobacco in those States; and Rock and Dane counties in Wisconsin grow nearly all raised in that State.

It is evident that the area devoted to this crop is very small in comparison with other staples. The reports from which the above statements are made leave out all counties producing less than 100,000 lbs per annum. Eighty-five per cent. of the whole crop is grown in seven States, yielding in the order named: Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, Ohio, Maryland, Missouri and North Carolina. Six other States—Illinois, Indiana, Connecticut, New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts—are credited with over a million pounds each in the census of 1870. Kentucky and Virginia grow more than half the whole crop; Kentucky alone grows forty per cent. of the whole.

The total returns to the Department from 140 counties show an increase in the crop of 1873 over that of 1872 of forty-one per cent. and if the same proportion of increase may be assumed of the whole crop of the United States, the tobacco crop of 1873 amounted in round numbers to 370,000,000 pounds, representing a cash value of, at wholesale prices, of $17,038,628.

According to statistics received during the month of June and the first week in July the crop of 1874 will be somewhere from 30 to 40 per cent. less than that of 1873, owing almost entirely to meteorological circumstances. Drouth and want of plants everywhere are complained of by farmers.

SUPREME COURT

EIGHTH DAY

Tuesday, August 25, 1874

Court met pursuant to adjournment.

Present as of yesterday.

State of Oregon vs Thomas Gearin—Motion heretofore filed by respondent's counsel to strike out bill of exceptions; argued by Whitney and Bonham for the motion, and Gearin and Bronaugh against. Case taken under advisement by the Court.

Ben Holladay, appellant, vs H D Henderson, respondent, and Ben Holladay, appellant, vs A W Patterson, respondent, and the O & C R R Co, appellant, vs J J Comstock, respondent. These cases are appeals from judgment rendered against the respective appellants and in favor of the respective respondents in the Court below sustaining demurrers to amended complaints and for costs and disbursements. The questions raised by the demurrers are similar in each case.

Court adjourned to meet at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The Brooklyn Argus says: "The irresistible logic of events forces us to present for the suffrages of the American people in the great campaign of 1876 the following incomparable ticket: For President, Benjamin F. Butler, of Massachusetts; for Vice President, Francis D. Moulton, of Narragansett Pier."

CARLIST ATROCITIES IN CUENCA

The Madrid Government continues to bring charges of the most fearful atrocities committed by the Carlists. The following extract from the report of the Civil Governor of Cuenca must be considered, as such, to be read with caution.

Among the victims of their ferocity was the Captain of the Reserve, Don Enrique Escobar, whom they found in his house, ill in bed. An infuriated band of Carlists entered, who, after giving him a number of blows, at last threw him out of the balcony, where they trampled on him and mocked at his sufferings. They were not even moved to compassion by the heart-rending cries of his unhappy mother, but threw her out roughly and broke her arm.

Divided into groups, the Carlists marched through the streets and entered the houses under the pretext of seeking arms. They sacked them and grossly insulted the women and children. Wherever they found a man they shot him or killed him with the bayonet. In the night of the 15th, they forced all the laborers to take tools and demolish the fortifications. Those inhabitants who were unaccustomed to this sort of work and who did not know how to manage the pick, were slaughtered under the walls.

Terrified by the horrors they were witnessing and seeing that the shooting of defenseless persons was going on, the inhabitants decided to send a delegation of ladies with clergy to the cathedral, where Don Alphonso and Donna Blanca were receiving the communion at the hands of the Bishop of Cuenca, to supplicate that the executions should cease and that the contribution of 2,000,000 of reals (£20,000) imposed on the population should be reduced. Their petition was answered that the Carlist soldiers had need of a short period of expansion (un rato de expansion).

They issued a proclamation to the effect that all the volunteers should receive indulto who presented themselves within the fixed period of seven hours. Some of the unhappy volunteers were the victims of their good faith, for they were made prisoners and shut up in the cloisters of the cathedral the moment they presented themselves for the promised indulto. A poor shoemaker was killed in his own house in the presence of his wife and children. When she interfered to try to save his life she received a sabre stroke in her hand which cut off her finger. The brains of her husband were scattered about the floor and she was compelled to obey a ferocious order to clean them up and throw them out of the window. A constable of the Ayuntamiento was killed by a bayonet through his breast, the assassins laughing at the sight of the gushes of blood which the unfortunate sufferer shed. One group of assassins penetrated into a house where they found a young woman of 18 years of age in bed with smallpox, and because she did not get up as quickly as they ordered her they killed her in the arms of her disconsolate mother.

In the midst of all these horrors, and as if it were a day of rejoicing, the Prince and Princess traversed the streets with music and banners. When they abandoned the city Donna Blanca went on horseback with a flag in hand and conducted the Military Governor, Brigadier Iglesias, as a prisoner to Cheva. The prisoners taken in the morning went on foot between the Carlist ranks. They were compelled to make a forced march of 18 hours. All who could not keep up were shot.

THE FASTEST TIME ON RECORD

MATCH AGAINST TIME FOR $2,000—BELMONT'S GRAY PLANET RUNS A MILE IN 1 42¾

Saratoga, August 14, 1874.

The great time match—Mr Belmont's gray horse, Gray Planet, by Planet, dam Eagless, five years old, to run a mile in 1 43, carrying 110 pounds—came off to-day, and was won by the horse with a second to spare, which is the fastest time on record.

The conditions of the match were that Gray Planet would run in 1 43 during the race meeting at Saratoga, and there was a great diversity of opinion as to how many trials the horse was entitled to, many declaring that he might start every day during the two meetings should his owner choose to do so, while others contended that one trial was all that the horse could have. The matter was finally laid before the Executive Committee of the Saratoga Association, who decided that one trial was all that would be allowed, and that when the flag fell for a start the affair had to be settled one way or the other. Against this decision Mr Belmont protested, but the horse was allowed to start, and he settled all controversy by winning the race in a very satisfactory manner. The betting was in favor of time during the morning, and in fact until just before the start time had the call, but before the flag fell Gray Planet ran into favor and the horse started with the betting about even.

Gray Planet was accompanied in his race first by Mr Belmont's chestnut mare Woodbine, who was ridden by little Tom Sayres, who rattled away behind Gray Planet to near the half mile pole, where the chestnut colt Babylon, with Hunter & Travers' jockey, McCue, in the saddle, awaited him and accompanied Gray Planet the last half mile. Gray Planet ran the first quarter in 25 seconds, the half mile in 50 seconds, the three quarters in 1 16, and came home without the use of whip or spur, in 1 42¾.

Gray Planet when a two-year-old won the Champagne Stakes at Jerome Park and the Annieswood Stakes at Baltimore, and it was then that Mr Belmont purchased him. He is a magnificent looking horse, with a fine head and neck, and is sixteen hands high. He has been used the last year by his owner as the trial horse of his stable. The horse cost $10,000 at two years old. He is now in perfect condition, and his performance to-day excited more interest and enthusiasm among turfmen than even the great trotting feats of Goldsmith Maid so recently enacted.

Crops in the West.—Davenport, Ia, Aug 17.—The hay crop is going to be the largest crop that has ever gladdened the farmers' eyes of Scott county. It will average two tons all around. The wheat crop is more than an average, being sixteen bushels to the acre. Corn is not quite so good, as many of the ears are not filled out. Oats are very heavy and will be more than an average crop.

Louisville, Ky, Aug 17.—The Courier-Journal this morning publishes reports from correspondents in fifty counties in Kentucky, representing 75 per cent. of the crop of the entire State, which indicate an unparalleled failure of the tobacco crop. The aggregate estimate, it is said, will be only 13 per cent. of the yield of 1873.

Little Rock, Ark, Aug 17.—The extreme dry, hot weather the past ten days has injured the crops all over the State to such an extent that not more than one fourth of a crop is now expected to be raised.

A Novel Sentence.—Ex-Governor Washburn, in his account of his native town, Livermore (Maine), relates the following: "An Indian had killed another of the same tribe at Rocomeco, who left an infant and crippled squaw. The murderer was arrested, tried and convicted, but, instead of hanging him and thus making a thoroughly idle scorpion out of what might be put to some advantage, his judges sentenced him to support and care for and wait upon the widow of the slain Indian as long as she should live. Vice President Hamlin has often heard his mother—a daughter of Deacon Livermore—say that she had many a time seen the Indian carrying the woman on his back, or hauling her on his hand sled. The last of this tribe of Rocomeco died at Lake Umbagog more than fifty years ago."

Earth decomposes nitrogenous substances, and for that reason should never be mixed with manures until they are about to be applied. The manure from earth closets turns out to be unexpectedly poor and contains only one fifth of the nitrogen which has been placed in it, the loss being due to the decomposition of the nitrogenous substances by the earth.—Galaxy.

Hon George P Holman, Agent and Secretary of the Pioneer Oil Mill Company, states that the first shipment of green tow (for upholstering) will be made this week to San Francisco. Forty bales of 500 pounds each will be sent on a contract for one hundred tons.

The La Grande Sentinel of last Saturday says: "On the night of Thursday the valley was visited by a terrific storm accompanied by thunder and lightning of a first class order. About nine o'clock the whole heavens were illuminated by a flash seldom seen. It struck a tree near La Grande, shivering portions of it into threads. It is yet burning. No damage occurred."

The Salem Record says the seventh brick kiln of the season was set on fire last Saturday at the Penitentiary. This kiln has about 400,000 brick in, besides a large lot of peculiar shaped brick for cornices, and six square and two and half inch brick for sidewalks. The eighth and ninth kilns are also nearly completed, each having in 300,000. The amount of brick made by convict labor this season far exceeds any previous year.

A letter from Greenwood, Arkansas, to Gov Grover: "There are some three or four hundred families here that want to emigrate next spring and talk of your State. The most of those families are by occupation farmers and mechanics. They want agricultural lands. These families are coming by land in a train of wagons. So please give us by mail all the advice as to the best part to locate in, and where lands suitable can be purchased cheapest, and all other information of interest. This train expects to start about the 1st of April, 1875, from near Fort Smith, Arkansas. Send statistics of your agricultural experience in your State."

DESPERATE FIGHT BETWEEN A DOG AND RATTLESNAKE

The Atlanta Herald has this story: On the 22d inst, within two and a half miles of Allendale, Ga, on the farm of John Davis Terrell, a most remarkable scene occurred. It was a terrible encounter between a dog and a rattlesnake, which ended in the death of both. About dusk that evening as he and his plowboy and a white woman he had hired to hoe were wending their way slowly homeward, after the day's labor was over, leading their horses along a pathway near the margin of the cornfield, the woman, who was barefooted and walking in the path before them, suddenly sprang back, exclaiming that there was the biggest snake she ever saw. Mr Terrell then advanced with a short pine knot in his hand with the intention of striking it, when the boy cautioned him, reminding him of the imminent danger he would incur by attempting to kill such a snake with such a frail weapon. He made no further effort to strike it, but the motion with the pine knot no doubt alarmed his snakeship, for he instantly turned and glided into the bushes and briars, and as he moved his rattles made the well known sound, which was also familiar to the dog, who, hearing it, at once sprang upon the snake, and it is supposed caught it by the tail and tore away the rattles, as their sound was not afterward heard.

Then commenced a death struggle. The snake would strike at the dog, and he would seize it in its mouth and shake it. But before he got a good hold on it it struck him several times with its fangs. The dog had previously killed several rattlesnakes and understood how to fight them upon a fair field; but in this case he fought at very great disadvantage, being impeded in his movements by the thick jungle of vines, briers and bushes, among which the snake had taken refuge. The fatal wound must have been given by the snake very soon after the contest commenced, as the dog was observed to become weak and to stagger, then he seemed to renew his attack on the snake with terrible energy and ferocity, taking it by the body and shaking it most vigorously from side to side and tearing great slugs of flesh from its body.

As soon as he had subdued the reptile he carried it out to open ground, where his master was, and laid it down. Then reeling like a drunken man, under the workings of the deadly poison, the brave fellow placed his feet on its body, and with the energy of desperation and death already grappling with him he literally tore out its vitals and strewed them on the ground. In a moment, and at the very climax of his victory, the faithful dog reeled and fell to the ground and in a few minutes was stiff in death, notwithstanding every possible effort was made to save him.

The Swindling "Lord Gordon Gordon."—Lord Gordon Gordon, who lately blew out his worthless brains with a horse-pistol, caused the Northern Pacific Railroad Company to spend $15,000 showing him their land, but he did not buy an acre and never intended to. Three years ago this summer he proposed to purchase the trifling amount of 50,000 acres, and the company fitted out a perfect caravan to conduct this Lord over their territory. The caravan was under the command of Colonel Loomis. There was a princely carriage for the princely Lord and several wagons and omnibuses. Twelve white servants were taken along, besides the French cook at a high salary and two or three colored waiters. It was a royal train, believe us. The stately caravan left St. Paul the latter part of August. The gorgeous carriage carried Milord and wagons laden with the choicest wines and liquors and dainties that the markets of St Paul and Chicago could supply brought up the rear. The princely train went from St Paul to Oak Lake, from Oak Lake to Fergus Falls, from Fergus Falls to Morehead, and from Morehead into the far and beautiful country beyond the Red River of the North. All the best lands of the Northern Pacific Company were looked at and roamed over. The table of Milord was supplied with the choicest game and fish. Wine flowed like water and all was lovely. But Milord bought no land. He seemed never to tire looking at it, but did not come down to square business until August and September wore away. He then elected fifty thousand acres in Otter Tail and Beaver counties, and the caravan returned to St Paul in November, the wine and provisions being exhausted and the men and animals nearly frozen.

That was the last of it. Milord never paid a cent toward his land, and the Northern Pacific Company footed the bills of the lordly party, amounting to $15,000 in cash. They were sold, but not their land.—Cincinnati Commercial.

Public Condemnation of Rev. Glendenning.—Jersey City, August 22.—A public meeting of some of the most respectable citizens of the Heights was held this evening to consider the death of Miss Pomeroy, the alleged victim of Rev John S Glendenning. The hall was crowded. Speeches on the conduct of Glendenning were made and resolutions were adopted, one of which was that Rev John S Glendenning be requested to vacate the city.

THE TERRITORIES.

John Scovey, of Boise, is awaiting trial at Boise City on a charge of selling whisky to Indians.

Business men say times are duller in Salt Lake at the present time than they have ever experienced.

It is estimated that $20,000,000 have been invested in Colorado mines by New Yorkers, that the bullion product has been $3,000,000, and that the property now owned by the companies is worth $38,000,000. All the figures may be correct, but we deem the last named amount pretty large in proportion to the second.

The following are the appointments for the Idaho district made at Salt Lake City last week by the Rocky Mountain Conference of the M. E. Church: J M Jamison, Presiding Elder; Boise City, J A Van Anda; Idaho City Circuit, D G Strong; Payette Circuit, John Andrews; Silver City, George C Allender; Rocky Bar Circuit, Silver City and Fort Hall Mission to be supplied.

The Leader says that the wool and hide shipments from West Las Animas, Colorado, for two weeks ending August 14th have amounted to 174,000 pounds. A small proportion, probably one fourth of this, was hides. During the same period, 22,110 pounds of lead, and eighteen cars of cattle were shipped; also, by express $7,594 worth of gold and $14,833 80 worth of silver bullion. The bullion was from the mines of New Mexico.

The light begins to dawn in Utah, and we may well suppose that polygamy is toppling to its fall. One after another of the Mormons are having their eyes opened, and exposing some of the crimes of Brigham Young and his confederates. A man named George A. Hicks, who has been a Mormon for 30 years, is out in a letter in the Tribune, in which he denounces Young as knowing and conniving at many of the crimes of blood which disgraced Utah at an early day, and which were always attributed to the Indians by the Mormons and their friends.

Our readers will recollect the details given the latter part of June concerning the suicide of Mr Willetts of White Salmon, W. T., and of the discovery of the body by Mr James Warner. Warner was recently arrested on the grave charge of murdering Willetts, and, through some personal friends of Mr Warner, unknown to him, concluded to stop the proceedings, upon hearing which Mr W insisted such should not be the case, but that the fullest investigation should be had, and that he should offer no testimony nor employ an attorney in the case, as out of their own mouths he should condemn his accusers. This proved to be the fact, and so clearly was it demonstrated by all the witnesses summoned for the prosecution, that no attempt was made on the part of the defense to offer testimony except the voluntary statement of Mr Joslyn and one or two unimportant questions put to Mrs Warner. Mr W was instantly released.

The Contract for Stamped Envelopes and Wrappers.—Bids for supplying the Post Office Department with stamped envelopes and newspaper wrappers for four years from October 1st were opened by the Postmaster General to-day. G F Nesbitt & Co and George H Reay, of New York, and the Morgan Envelope Company of Massachusetts, were the bidders, the last named the lowest. Reay averaged about ten per cent and Nesbitt & Co twenty five per cent above their prices. The award will be made in a day or two.—Wash. Corr., August 14.

THURSDAY MORNING AUGUST 27 1874

THE EPIDEMIC OF SUICIDE.

The singular question whether suicide is ever an epidemic has occupied the attention of the French doctors during the past year. The proposition had been stated on several occasions before and some general speculations upon it had found their way into the medical publications of Paris but nothing was done looking to an investigation by scientific methods until about a year ago when certain gentlemen eminent in the medico scientific circles of the French capital, determined to collect statistical information with relation to the subject. This was undertaken as a curious experiment rather than as a scientific investigation directed to a certain definite point. But when the learned gentlemen came to compare notes they were surprised to find that if only the mortality tables were to be consulted suicide would appear to be as clearly epidemical in character as scarlatina. It was shown that during certain periods suicide was of extremely rare occurrence while at other times there seemed to be a mania for self-destruction spread abroad in the entire community. One year the suicides in the principle cities of France would not exceed one hundredth of one per cent while the very next they would reach as high as one fourth of one per cent of the entire population, and in some instances these would nearly all occur within a period of two or three months. Furthermore it was found that at the same time when reports of suicides filled the ears of the people of one city almost constantly, other cities were comparatively free from such cases. These curious facts, when made public, attracted the attention of the profession and gave rise to the general discussion of the question, Is suicide epidemical? The doctors are disagreeing on the subject as they do on all subjects, and the nature of the question so restricts the methods of investigation that it is not likely any satisfactory conclusion will be arrived at by the present generation.

If we could reach the statisticians of the investigation we should feel impelled by an appreciation of the interests of science to urge upon their consideration the establishment of a station of observation in the United States. They would have a broader if not richer, field here than in France and the history of last year would certainly present a favorable showing for the American nation. Nearly every day the telegraph announces the death of one or more persons by their own hands. Any one who will take the trouble to preserve the reports of such cases for a single month when the fever is at its height, will be astonished at the result. The epidemic is now raging in New York. The papers of that city reported seventeen cases during the week ending on the 15th of the present month, five of which occurred in one day. Last winter and spring San Francisco reported a felo de se almost every day. Just now we hear very little of such cases there. As Dr Hammond would probably say the morbid impulse appears to be no longer active on this coast but one cannot read the Eastern papers this summer without uniting with the French doctors in the inquiry Is suicide an epidemic?

THE NEW GOVERNMENT OF THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA

Although the Commissioners composing the new Government of the District of Columbia have decided that contracts for city improvements entered into by the old Government are to be held valid still they have started out like honest men. They were waited upon by a committee of taxpayers in reference to the subject and after taking time to consider it carefully, replied that they had unanimously concluded that the contracts of the old Government which were void when made because of the want of any appropriation to carry them into effect, were legalized by the provisions of the act of 20th June, 1874 creating the new Government and abolishing the Board of Public Works by whom the contracts in question were made. They expressly declare however, that their decision only applies to contracts not tainted with fraud, as it cannot be assumed that Congress intended to legalize fraudulent contracts. Pending the examination of the question, they suspended all the contracts not fully performed the number of such being 117, and for some reason, perhaps on account of their being fraudulent, 67 of them still remain suspended.

The Commissioners have determined to enter into no new contracts for public improvements, except such as may be absolutely necessary to complete and preserve improvements made under the old contracts. Another and very important item in the policy they have declared is that all contracts are to be let to the lowest bidder after being duly advertised through the newspapers of the city.

Such a beginning looks as if it were intended to give the people of the District the benefits of an honest government. If upon further trial this appearance shall not prove deceptive one of the most fruitful sources of public scandal will have been removed. The Credit Mobilier, the Sanborn swindle the Jayne robberies the Back Salary grab the District frauds. These are the chief heads under which the disgraces of the period of Republican rule may be arranged. The awakening of the people to a sense of the situation and the consequent pressure upon the politicians, has wiped out each and all of these stains so far as they could be wiped out. The infamous scoundrelism that fattened on the plunder of the District steals, was the last to go down. May it long be the la[st].

GEN O O HOWARD

The Bulletin News seems to take special delight in assailing Gen O O Howard who has just arrived to take command of this Military Department. We can not imagine why the News should pursue such a course. Gen. Howard had a trial a fair trial it is to be presumed, on the charges made against him, and was acquitted. That should be the end of the matter unless it can be shown that the court was unduly influenced in his favor or which we believe there is no pretense. Further more Gen Howard enjoys the confidence of all those with whom he has associated and those best and longest acquainted with him are, if we are not misinformed, unanimous in their belief in his integrity. Gen Howard has served the country well in various stations, and no charge affecting his character for integrity has been sustained and while we in common with the rest of the citizens of Portland have a very high appreciation of the personal worth of his predecessor and of the valuable services he has rendered our people since he assumed command of the Department and while we join in regret at the departure of Gen Davis, we can not but regret also that any should feel called upon to assail the character of Gen Howard in whom we hope to find a gentleman in every way worthy of the position he is to occupy among our people.

THE PERIODICALS

THE OVERLAND MONTHLY.—The September number of this magazine presents a varied and interesting table of contents. The Overland is redolent of the Pacific coast but it is not wanting in the graces that adorn the periodical literature of older communities. Its editorial work is carefully and thoroughly done which is one of the principal charms of a well conducted magazine.

THE SANITARIAN.—The general reader does not take very kindly to medical literature however popular may be its style. But the world would be profited greatly by a perusal of the leading papers that appear in the Sanitarian from time to time. Special attention is devoted to the subject of sewage in cities, municipal regulations of slaughtering and other businesses by which public health may be affected, regulations and means for preventing the spread of contagious and infectious diseases and the like. The Sanitarian treats questions practically and sensibly rather than technically.

THE GALAXY.—The Galaxy for September is unusually interesting. Its contents are Linley Rochford (serial) Non Semper Imbres by I W Parsons Life on the Plains by Gen Custer September (poetry) by Sally A Broeel the Romance of Holland House by Alfred Guernsey Marshal McMahon Duke of Magenta by E Reclus My Hero by Theo Gift Portrait (poetry) by Mary L Ritter Wanderings (No 5 along the Mediterranean by Lady Blanche Murphy At Parting (poetry) by Annie Chambers Ketchum Maid's Journal Franz Liszt by Richard Grant White From the Greek of Meleager by W H W A Private Chapel by J T Headley Driftwood by Philip Quilibet Scientific Miscellany Current Literature Nebulæ.

Several of the leading importing firms of New York Boston and Philadelphia having made inquiries of the Secretary of the Treasury to know whether that portion of the revised statutes relating to the duties on import is considered by the Department as a repeal of all other laws on the subject the Secretary directed the publication of a circular for distribution throughout the country stating in substance that title 33 of the United States Statutes is the sole law of the country relative to duties on imports all other laws having been annulled by the act of June 24th 1874.

One of the methods by which political sympathy is worked up to voting heat is aptly illustrated in the following item from an Eastern exchange:

A beautiful banner which was thrown to the breeze at Port Richmond Philadelphia in favor of Hon Leonard Myers for Congress was burned at 1 o'clock last Wednesday morning by some scoundrel. Mr Myers on hearing of it telegraphed to his friends in the Twenty fifth ward. Incendiarism and ballot box stuffing go hand in hand. Fifty banners will take the place of the one thus ruthlessly destroyed.

On the south end of the place are 65 acres of Prairie now in crop on the north end there are [illegible] acres of Beaver Dam Land that is excellent lying near the Tualatin river and the farms on both sides of this are well drained so that there is no trouble in ditching this piece and joining them. A good county road runs through this place.

Also a portion of N C Richardson's Donation Land Claim containing [illegible] acres lies on the east of the county road has 40 acres of Prairie Land and [illegible] or [illegible] a large log barn and small frame house with four rooms and in the place a good well a [illegible] and a stream of living water near the barn at the south end of the place there is a swampy tract of some [illegible] acres or more which has no timber but some willows when ditched it would make one of the finest meadows in Washington Co. The above described farms are all lying [illegible] three miles south of Hillsboro on the line of the O C R R [illegible] miles from Portland and will make one of the best grain farms in the State.

Also the McKay Creek Farm containing 190 acres situate in what is known as the Forks of the Creek [illegible] miles from Webber's sawmill and about [illegible] miles from the town known as Glencoe and 8 miles north of Hillsboro. Between 80 and 100 acres of this land is rich creek bottom land. Some little improvements. A good county road runs through the place.

Also the Donation Land Claim of D W Aldrich and wife containing 296 80-100 acres. Has origin[al]ly [illegible] acres fenced [illegible] acres of orchard 10 acres of meadow fair frame barn. Has 90 acres of open land [illegible] easy to clear. Well watered and situate about one mile from the Tualatin and 4 miles from Oregon City.

Also the Ambrose Field Donation Land Claim containing 300 acres. Lies on the Tualatin river [illegible] south 3 miles west from Oregon City. Has [illegible] acres of plow land and 150 acres of uncleared land [illegible] improvements but good land on [illegible].

Also [illegible] acres near East Portland in Sec [illegible] T 1 S R 2 East.

Also [illegible] acres near East Portland in Sec [illegible] T 1 S R 2 East.

Also [illegible] near Vancouver in Clark Co W T.

Also the north half of Block [illegible] in the city of Portland.

BROKE JAIL.—Some days ago an [illegible] ing celestial who for a long time has [illegible] acting as a sort of contractor in [illegible] beef cattle and meat, and supplying a large number of his countrymen employed at the various fisheries along the Columbia, was arrested at Astoria. He had become heavily indebted to a certain firm in this city who are engaged in the butchering business, and it was strongly suspected the celestial contractor purposed to slope and leave his creditors in the lurch. When it was known that the Chinaman had left Portland and gone down to Astoria the butchering firm sent a man down there to lookout and prevent him from leaving the State. Armed with a warrant the officer went to Astoria. A short time prior to the sailing of the Stephens from the dock bound for San Francisco the officer [illegible] that his man was stowed snugly away in some nook or corner of the steamer. Boarding the v[essel] the officer instituted a thorough search, and soon discovered the absconding debtor hid be[low] in the steerage. He yanked him forth and disregarding his earnest protestations and repeated "me no sabbe" took him to jail. Several persons residing in Astoria with whom the Chinaman had been trading, and to whom he was indebted to sundry amounts, also [made] complaints so that the Chinaman was fairly in for it. In default of bonds he was committed to jail to stand trial as an [illegible] debtor. Up to Friday night he was a prisoner in durance vile when he [illegible] boarded the bill out. So he went to work wi[th] an auger bored a hole through the [illegible] which was five inches in [illegible]. An aperture of sufficient dim[ensions] was made through which the [illegible] the form of the celestial was insinuated. Since then John [has] not been seen.

A SLEEPING BEAUTY.—[illegible] old "bum" was [illegible] out of [illegible] length on the sidewal[k] [illegible] and First street [illegible] ces of drunken [illegible] peaceful as that of a [illegible] stertorous [illegible] sound. This fellow [illegible] the drapery of his couch [illegible] to lying down to [illegible] was certain that he [illegible] the melancholly Hamlet [illegible]. We [illegible] judge of this fact by the variety of [illegible] which were [illegible] features of the [illegible] as his face was [illegible] to greet the morning sun. It was [illegible] —yes it was consoling to study the prostrate form of this [illegible] with what perfect [illegible] on. Such [illegible] patrolling guard [illegible] commentary on the depravity of the [illegible] race. No fear of chains, [illegible] diet [illegible] the [illegible] beat's slumbers, and last one [illegible] harshly on his ears, [illegible] away from the [illegible]. N B.—The Police Judge will [illegible] this morning.

NOT HEARD FROM.—[illegible] ago to the [illegible] unaccountable [illegible] in the city of [illegible] Mr Hall who [illegible] in Yamhill [illegible] Hall came down to Portland to [illegible] castings and mill [illegible] erecting a large [illegible] McMinnville), and [illegible] arrived here on the 5th of A[ugust] [illegible] appeared on the morning of the 6th. It was ascertained that he had [illegible] at the [illegible] Exchange Hotel, [illegible] bill left [illegible] which time nothing has [illegible] him. Some time [illegible] purchased a farm in Ya[mhill] [illegible] named Brooke, for which he was to [illegible] sum of $7,500. On this [illegible] and gave Brooke [illegible] the balance. It is now [illegible] tained that Hall [illegible] Astoria and [illegible] in the community [illegible] known was regarded as [illegible] every respect worthy of the [illegible] fidence of his fellow [illegible]. He was [illegible] circumstan[ces] [illegible] reason why he should leave the [illegible] doubtless has done.

ANNUAL CONVOCATION.—The C[onvocation of] the Episcopal Church in the [illegible] diction of Oregon and W[ashington] [illegible] will [illegible] in Trinity Church Portland, on T[illegible] evening August 27th at 7½ o'clock, to attend divine service and hear the [illegible] address. The following are the [illegible] bers of this body: Bishop Morris, [illegible] Officer the Revs John Sellw[ood] [illegible] Sellwood John Rosenberg, J [illegible] W. [illegible] Peter Hyland, Thos A Hyland, C[illegible] Chas R Bonnell, A S Nichol[s] [illegible] Samuel H Wells, R. W Sum[illegible] cock J L. Hammond and R. W. W[illegible] Presbyters, and Jas Daly, D[illegible] parish or organized mission is [illegible] tance lay delegates. The delegat[es] [illegible] Trinity Church Portland are Dr R. B. W[illegible] R. Glisan and Hon Matthew P Deady. Th[e] [illegible] from St Stephen's Chapel are C H D[illegible] J W Whalley and J T Bloomfield.

TROOPS.—Sixty soldiers belonging to C[om]panies C and D Fourth Artillery, under command of Capt Rhodney, arrived from Si[tka] on the California. These troops having [been] relieved from that post, are on the way to [San] Francisco where they are to be [illegible] the present. They will be carried [illegible] the Ajax which is to sail this [illegible] the sailing of the Ajax, the Cal[ifornia] will [be] kept anchored out in the stream. This [illegible] prevent the soldiers from coming ash[ore] which if allowed, would [illegible] no little trouble and vexation [illegible] generally like sailors in a port for th[illegible] always some who must get drunk if li[quor] can be obtained. As the troops when [en] route cannot be subjected to the rigid rule[s] [of] military discipline, the o[fficers] [illegible] wise course in not permitting them to [land]. When the Ajax is ready to sail, the troops [will] be transferred.

ARRIVED.—Gen O O Howard who is [to as]sume command of this Military Departm[ent] vice Gen Jeff C Davis relieved, reached [illegible] on the last steamer accompanied by his [illegible] ly. On his arrival he was [illegible] on [illegible] deputation of officers and a [illegible] tendered him. Gen Howard will assume [com]mand of the Department in a few days [illegible] predecessor Gen Davis in accordance [with] orders will join his regiment, n[illegible] in Wyoming Territory. He will [illegible] take his departure in a few weeks, or as [soon] as all necessary arrangements can be effe[cted].

INCORPORATED.—Messrs John West, Geo [illegible] Flavel and William Wadhams filed articles [of] incorporation yesterday in the Clerk's o[ffice] organizing a joint stock company known as [the] "Portland and Astoria Telegraph Company". The object of this corporation is to construct and maintain a telegraph line from a point at or near Cowlitz station Washington Territory to Astoria State of Oregon and intermediate points along the Columbia river and el[sewhere]. The principal office or place of business [is] Portland. Amount of capital stock $15,[illegible] amount of each share $50.

ALLOWANCE TO BE MADE.—The Portland [Gas] Company will on and after September [illegible] make a reduction of $1 per thousand cubic [feet] of gas used on bills paid prior to the [5th] of each month. A penny saved is a penny earned and knowing ones should be prompt and s[illegible] a dollar or two. If bills are not paid w[ithin] the prescribed time the former price will [be] adhered to.

RETURNED.—Major Rucker returned from [an] extended trip on Tuesday evening. He w[ent] to Southern Oregon several weeks since [illegible] of the troops. Major Rucker proceeded to Fort Klamath, from Jacksonville on [illegible] disbursing money at that post among [the] officers and soldiers returned here via F[illegible] Poise.

CONVALESCENT.—Numerous friends of [illegible] S N Arrigoni here and elsewhere wil[l be] pleased to learn of the convalescence of th[is] gentleman. For some weeks past Mr Arr[igoni] has been quite ill from an attack of drop[sy] but is now able to walk around.

ARRIVED.—The steamer California arrived [at] this port on Tuesday evening from Sitka w[ith] passengers and freight. She is anchored [in] the stream.

A SLEEPING BEAUTY —Yesterday a confirmed old "bum" was observed stretched out at full length on the sidewalk near the corner of B and First streets, locked in the strong embraces of drunken slumber. His sleep was as peaceful as that of a toothless infant, while his stertorous breathings gave forth no uncertain sound This fellow evidently had not wrapped the drapery of his couch about him previous to lying down to pleasant slumbers but it was certain that he dreamed dreams such as the melancholy Hamlet spoke of. We should judge of this fact by the variety of expressions which were observed to sweep over the classic features of the sleeper as his face was upturned to greet the morning sun It was refreshing —yea it was consoling to survey the prostrate form of this lord of creation and mark with what perfect sense of security he snored on. Such resignation in the very face of the patrolling guardians of peace afforded a sad commentary on the depravity of the human race. No fear of chains courts cells and prison diet disturbed the serenity of that old dead beat's slumbers and lest our tread should grate harshly on his ears we moved cautiously away from the scene N B —The Police Judge will interview the subject of this affecting paragraph this morning

NOT HEARD FROM —Allusion was made in this paper several weeks ago to the sudden and unaccountable disappearance in the city of a Mr Hall who resided in Yamhill county Hall came down to Portland to purchase some castings and mill fixtures (he was engaged in erecting a large double circular saw mill near McMinnville) and had $1 400 in coin He arrived here on the 5th of August and disappeared on the morning of the 6th It was ascertained that he had stopped at the American Exchange Hotel and having settled his bill left there early in the morning since which time nothing has been seen or heard of him. Some time before he came down Hall [illegible] a farm in Yamhill county of a man [illegible] Brooke for which he was to pay the [illegible] of $7 500 On this amount he paid $4,000 [illegible] A. OUT-DOOR SPORTS.

The return game between the Cricket Club and Pioneers will be played on Saturday afternoon

In all probability the return game between the College and Arcadian Clubs will be played next week

Four new members were added to the Pioneer Club at their last meeting two of whom are to appear on the field, their previous record elsewhere entitling them to active service Al Oliver, who has acted as pitcher during the early part of the season has retired and will engage in some occupation in the country

The members of the Arcadian Club mentioned yesterday, leave on the Willamette Chief at an early hour this morning for Astoria. Mr Al Sutherland, of the Pioneer Club, accompanies the players and will officiate as Umpire when required The boys go fully equipped, and expect to return with several trophies

Captain Thompson, of the Pioneer Club has handed us the following which he informs us is an exact copy of the letter sent to the New York Clipper, July 22d, the answer to which we published in Monday's issue

William Johnson left the Eagle B B Club and joined the Pioneers of this city Within sixty days thereafter the Pioneers proposed to play Johnson in a match against the Arcadian Club of this city They (the Arcadians) objected, and cited the rules governing professional organizations, and in support of this objection the Umpire gave it as his opinion that Johnson could not play, and hence the Pioneers played the game without him under protest I would respectfully ask if the rule applies? Neither club belongs to the Professional Amateur or National Association The Pioneers in self defense, also objected to three of the Arcadians who had signed the Pioneer constitution and were in arrears for dues but had not played with the latter during the year 1874 and were considered by the Pioneers as members according to their constitution The Pioneers have never disbanded but have held their organization from year to year for the past five or six years I was forced to allow to play the three to whom I had objected according to the opinion of the Umpire Respectfully

BOARD OF TRADE.

ADJOURNED MEETING, AUG 26 1874

The Portland Board of Trade met at their rooms at 8 o'clock P M the President Hon H W Corbett in the chair

The minutes of the meeting of August 19th were read and approved

Mr Schuyler moved that subscriptions of membership be in the name of a firm when so desired but that in such case all the members of such firm be entitled to membership but with a right to cast but one vote

Mr Northrup had a copy of the Constitution of the Chamber of Commerce of San Francisco, and by reference to it he saw that the members there were individuals and not firms

Mr Goldsmith favored the motion and so did Mr Burrell

Mr Laidlaw thought the custom was for one individual of the firm to represent the firm in meetings of the Board

Mr Leonard thought that the best way to settle the question would be to allow firms as many votes as such firm subscribed as members

The motion of Mr Schuyler being in conflict with article 3 of the Constitution, it was declared out of order

THE MEMBERS

The following named gentlemen then signed the Constitution and became members of the Board H W Corbett B Goldsmith M S Burrell P C Schuyler Jas Laidlaw I White I C Ford Chas Lancaster, John R Foster, H C Leonard Wm Williams E D Bockenudos D W Williams James Laidlaw J Kramer Frank Dekum W J Vanschuyver Saml Sherlock, F J Northrup Wm Reid

PILOTAGE AND TOWAGE

Mr Goldsmith offered the following

That the Committee on Navigation be instructed to investigate and report to this Board what changes if any may be deemed necessary in the law relating to pilotage and towage

The resolution was adopted

On motion, the Board adjourned until Monday next at 7 30 P M

NOT DISBANDED

VANCOUVER, Aug 26, 1874

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

In your issue this morning, was an item stating that "Glenn, the excellent second baseman of the Eagles (now disbanded) had joined the Arcadians"

In the first place the Eagles have not disbanded and in the second place Glenn being in arrears to the Eagles' Base Ball Club can not legally join any other club

I write this merely to show our many readers that the Eagles are not dead and that even Glenn by his misrepresentations cannot kill them

BISMARCK AS A FARMER

One day the Prince was proceeding on foot from the springs to the town and was obliged to cross a meadow which was just being mowed. The Prince is as is well known owner of an estate himself and takes a great interest in agricultural affairs so he commenced a conversation with the mowers who did not recognize him and at last requested one of them to give him a scythe which he used with apparently great skill. The Bavarian peasants were astonished at this proof of skill on the part of a gentleman who appeared to them to belong to the upper classes, and expressed their admiration accordingly As soon as the Prince had left off mowing the grass one of the countrymen turned to him and asked "You seem to be a good farmer sir and can use a scythe better than I who have worked with one more than forty years

"Well, my dear fellow," replied Bismarck "one gets acquainted with many things in one's life and what I do I like to do properly

The Prince now took leave of the people shaking hands with the man who had lent him the scythe and congratulating all on the prospect of a good harvest which lay before them

The Chancellor was hardly out of sight of the poor peasants when a stranger who had watched the scene very attentively came up to the latter and asked them if they had any idea with whom they had spoken "No," replied the lender of the scythe, "but at any rate he seems to be a good farmer to me at least and I ought to be a judge" "Well" replied the stranger "he is no less a person than Prince Bismarck" "What! exclaimed the peasant bewildered with the information "it was he who used my scythe Then I would not part with it for any money" Saying this he looked at his implement of husbandry as tenderly as a mother at her child So one sees that Bavarian peasants have more esteem and a greater liking for Bismarck than the ultramontane journals wish to make one believe. But a few hours after the event it was known, of course throughout the watering place and everybody and more especially the Englishmen resident here, proceeded to see the spot and scythe and to converse with the happy owner of the latter The Englishmen were desirous of buying the scythe which had become such an interesting object and were overbidding one another in their efforts to the peasant but he refused to part with it, saying in his broad Bavarian dialect "It is a treasure to me now and I will keep it but everybody may see it"

The field has been christened "Bismarck's Field" and it is possible that next year we may find a bronze monument of Bismarck with a scythe in his hand on this same field just as we find one of the Emperor Joseph guiding the plough in Moravia. Many guests of the watering place have urged the proposal

POLITICAL ITEMS

It is now said that Colonel Forney, of the Philadelphia Press will be pushed for Senator Scott's seat in the United States Senate

It may surprise some people to learn that Reverdy Johnson still lives and is spoken of as Congressman from the first Maryland District

The St Louis Republican (Democratic) gives up all hope of uniting its party on the money question and points despairingly to the attitude of the party in Maine and Illinois on the one hand and in Ohio and Indiana on the other

The Progressives of the Choctaw nation were victorious at the election held August 5th It is not known exactly what was their platform of principles but it is believed they went in for silk hats, fine-tooth combs and tooth brushes

Ever since the St Louis Dispatch announced that its Democratic friends were now "for the first time in fourteen years crawling out of the brush," the unfortunate Democracy of that State have been dubbed Bushwhackers There is truth as well as poetry in the name

Gen Butler will be a candidate for Governor in Massachusetts yet A feeler in that direction has been put forth in the form of a speech, highly eulogistic of the Essex statesman, which is circulating plentifully about the State That it does full justice to the subject may be inferred from the extract: Be his enemies or the enemies of his friends who they may— Presidents senators kings, parliaments legislatures armies his own party the newspapers or even the churches no matter— his foes must succumb His wars are always on the offensive and seldom, indeed, on the defensive The party, or the man, must be saintly as an angel, strong as Hercules and as firmly set as the rock of Gibraltar to escape the pen, or the hand or the artillery of his prolific and wonderful genius

HARD ON CARPENTER, TILTON AND MOULTON

A New York dispatch of August 17th says concerning the Beecher Tilton suit

An exciting legal contest is quite sure In the meantime the Tribune Sun and World are enlisted in the Beecher interest Shearman runs Whitelaw Reid and the special service corps of the Tribune while Bartlett a veteran journalistic fag writes the leaders for the Sun

The Sun to day says "As to the charges of Tilton and Moulton and Carpenter and any alleged admission to them the man who would hang a dog on the word or oath of any three of the men who had so much as the smell of blackmail on the hem of their garments has no manhood in him

The Tribune not much milder remarks the blackmail feature is the really destructive matter. It scarcely helps Mr Beecher, but it falls like the lightning upon his assailants It shows Mr Tilton's attitude in the business as touching the depth of infamy As to Moulton it is destruction Mr Carpenter only escapes on the ground that he knew no better

The World concludes a lengthy editorial with the following paragraph

Social degradation can have but small terrors for a man like Tilton who has made himself the biographer of a blatant bawd. As for a man like Moulton, of whom it now appears that this blatant bawd has been a welcome guest under his roof if the law could do all the law ought perhaps to be able to do for the vindication of the moral interests of the community here would be a notable case indeed for the unbridling of all its terrors

[illegible] MORNING AUGUST [illegible] 1874

PAINTING THE PORTRAIT OF THE EMPEROR OF CHINA

The Emperor had frequently spoken to encourage Brother Pansi, for fear he should be too timid in his presence "in which case [illegible] the fear of not succeeding will of itself prevent his success. Let him paint me," he added, "with the same confidence with which he paints an ordinary person. Let him adopt the posture which is most convenient, and let him not try me without any reserve of anything which would prejudice or contribute to the perfection of his work."

In attention which his majesty condescended to exhibit with regard to everything which could impede or obstruct Brother Pansi induced him again to fear that if he continued to talk the brother might have his attention distracted by it. In chattering as we are now doing," he said to me familiarly, "I fear lest the painter may be troubled by it. Will he not get on better if I keep myself quiet?" I assured his majesty that as long as he was speaking his face had an air of kindness and serenity which was exceedingly becoming in a portrait but which would not be so plainly marked if he were applying himself to any work. The application, besides rendered the expression of the face less open the features less marked, and consequently more difficult to paint."

"Since this is so," said the Emperor placing on the table the manuscript which he held in his hand, "let us then talk," and actually for nearly seven hours that Brother Pansi in different sittings was employed in painting his majesty during the whole time he put to me a continual series of questions on all sorts of matters telling me frequently to be seated, as in view of my feeble health and advanced age he feared I should be incommoded by remaining so long standing, and he lowered himself to speak to me with all the kindness and familiarity which a father would use toward one of his children.

The left eyebrow of the emperor is a little broken off by an interval of about the twelfth of an inch in breadth the hair which should fill it growing on the border of the eyebrow, below the [illegible] space. As, however, the hair of the eyebrow conceals this deformity, it can scarcely be noticed. But the emperor causing us to come near him, pointed out to us this separation and told me to recommend to Brother Pansi to copy it exactly. I said to him, "If your Majesty had not drawn our attention to it we should not have [illegible] it."

"Well," said the Emperor smiling, "notify him to paint this defect in such a way that one will not perceive it unless he has been warned, but when his attention has been drawn to it, he will see it. It is my portrait he is to paint; it is not right that he should flatter me. If I have defects he ought to represent them, otherwise it will not be my likeness. It is the same with the wrinkles on my face. It is necessary to give the painter notice of them, to make it [illegible] life-like."

I said that "really they were so little apparent that the painter would have difficulty in perceiving them."

"They do appear but little," said the Emperor. "They are not as evident as yours, though I am much older than you."

I have already stated that the taste of the Chinese, and particularly that of the Emperor, led them to desire in their pictures only so much shade as was absolutely necessary. His majesty wished also that the hairs of his beard and of his eyebrows should be [illegible] ately so distinctly marked that when near the portrait one could distinguish them. I recalled to mind, on this occasion, that one day the Brother Attiret, whose eminent talent for painting is well known, during the first years of his residence here had painted a flower upon which Brother Castiglioni who had been here for some years having by chance cast his eye, he said to Brother Attiret, "There are one or two leaves too many in the contour of that flower." "But," said Attiret, "as to the number of leaves which form the whole flower who would think it necessary to count them?" "A good painter in Europe," replied Castiglioni, "would pronounce your flower to be perfect but here there is not an apprentice painter, who at the first glance, will not tell you at once that your flower has not in its contour the number of leaves which it should have." And Brother Attiret immediately convinced himself, by showing the flower to Chinese painters. I had seen the same thing done with reference to the number of scales which ought to be in each row on the body of a fish. Although the Emperor did not enter into this kind of [illegible] he nevertheless wished, following the taste of his country, that his beard and eyebrows should be painted in such a way that at least a large number of hairs could be distinguished the one from the other by a stroke of the brush made for each. But as this labor consumed considerable time I said to him that Brother [illegible] could do this at his leisure in private and that it would not be necessary for him to be in the presence of His Majesty.—Bishop Kep [illegible] Occident Monthly for September.

HOW MIKE SAVED HIS FRIENDS

The Lawrence American says that some men who attend horse races and buy pools are sensitive enough to keep quiet when they have got in wrong, as horsemen term it. Others—and they are in the majority—howl, swear and curse the judges or drivers, and while it is somewhat amusing to watch these "squealers," as they are vulgarly yet appropriately termed, it also sets one's wits at work to invent some method by which all pool buyers could be satisfied. But occasionally you will find a horseman with a tender conscience and rare solicitude for his friends, and such a man is the affable Mike Carroll, who owns many horses and drives them at races. On Wednesday a large number of persons bought pools on Mike's bay gelding Essex, and that horse taking the first heat these men bought more pools on Essex against the field. But Mike lost the next two heats which were won by Emperor, and the pool buyers looked sad, and as Mike returned from the stable they gathered around him and complained that their money was bet on his horse and he was "throwing" the race. Here was a rare exhibition of Mike's solicitude for his friends, and his generous heart prompted him to say, "Gentlemen, I'm afraid my horse is off and I don't think I can win this race, I'm sorry, but I tell you that I am not pulling the horse, and I don't want another driver put in. I'd rather lose a good deal of money, and I'll tell what I'll do. You're all my friends and I don't want you to lose any money on me and I'll take all your pools off your hands rather than have any hard feeling." This was fair and the crowd began to [illegible] in their cards, which Mike willingly accepted with smiles of rare benevolence. This little matter having been adjusted, Carroll mounted his sulky and without effort won the next two heats and the race, pocketing the [illegible] the large odds which his friends would have won, and a handsome gift from a man who had a heavy pool at stake besides his own pools. Mike played his little game shrewdly, and the greenhorns, though losing nothing, failed to make a dollar. A few were shrewd enough to hold on to their chances when they saw the owner and driver willing to be so very generous to his friends.

A GRAVE OFFENSE.—New York, August 17.—The Pall Mall Gazette of the 5th has the following: According to a Bayonne paper an American skipper, captain John Jefferson of the [illegible] has played a trick in the Bay of Biscay the other day which will cause irritation both at Berlin and Madrid. He appears to have seen a telegram from Bilbao to the Spanish Government to the effect that the United States had ordered a cruiser to see that no American ships landed guns for the Carlists. Serrano immediately wrote a letter of thanks to the Minister of the sister Republic, who replied that he knew nothing of the cruiser in question. However before the matter could be inquired into Captain Jefferson had accomplished his nefarious purpose, and while playing the part of a United States vessel, with the flag attached, he had, under the nose of the Spanish fleet, landed twenty-seven guns etc. for the Carlists. After this the [illegible] quietly left port and vanished in the horizon.

[illegible] Jew harvest a Jew was hard on his debtor and the debtor stabbed him to the heart. Another Jew, a neighbor, rushed to seize the debtor and the debtor stabbed him. The wounded man seized a hatchet, killed the debtor with a single blow and fell dead himself. Here is another chance for [illegible] to make a new American drama.

BILLIARD MATCH FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP.—New York, August 22.—All arrangements were made here to day for a billiard match for $2,000 and the championship of America between Cyrille Dion and A. Rudolphe. This afternoon $500 were posted. The contest is to take place here on the 18th of September.

Wheat in Liverpool by mail advices from San Francisco 10s 9d@11s for average California and 11s 5d@12s for club.

Some appearance of activity is noticed in local commercial circles over what prevailed earlier in the week, but yet the volume of trade is limited as it always is at this time in the year when all the energies of the farming classes are directed to the work of garnering the crops. The wheat market has as yet developed no new feature of importance and it now seems that those who are in the market as buyers will make but little demand upon the local capital but will draw means from abroad to carry on the trade. In that case we shall probably have an easy money market throughout the entire season.

According to a statement going the round of Eastern papers the aggregate of the debts of the country national, State, county, municipal and individual amounts to $9,[illegible] or about $[illegible] 48 per capita for the entire population. This of course it does not bear equally on all. The nation also owes according to recent estimates not less than $[illegible] 000,000 on account of disputed claims pending before Congress the departments or the courts. On the greater part of this debt interest is paid at an average rate of 6 per cent. It is impossible to ascertain how much of this indebtedness is held abroad. Bonds are sent abroad and others are sent home at short intervals. Aside from the national debt most of the claims represent material improvements although nearly eighty millions of the national debt represents the principal and interest on railroad bonds which have been loaned and for which there are only nominal securities.

The Grain Markets and Crops.

As everything which bears upon the question of the supply and prices of grain is of interest to a large class of our readers we have compiled from the Produce Exchange, the official organ of the New York Chamber of Commerce of August 11th some facts which may tend to throw light upon the future of the market as affected by [illegible] supplies and crops in the grain centers and grain growing countries of the world. The visible supply of grain in [illegible] the [illegible] in granary, at the principal points of accumulation, at lake and seaboard ports, in transit by lake, rail, and on the New York canals August 8th, 1874 and the comparative stocks at the [illegible] periods, were as follows:

	1874	18[illegible]

Corn	7,021,958	10,283,[illegible]

Imports into the United Kingdom for weeks ended

Week.	Flour cwt.	Wheat cwt.
July [illegible]	120,124	869,[illegible]
July [illegible]	146,[illegible]41	1,160,015
July [illegible]	106,[illegible]	1,067,[illegible]
July [illegible]	182,[illegible]92	1,141,[illegible]
Total	[illegible],[illegible]50	4,250,[illegible]

The imports of [illegible] into the United Kingdom for the week [illegible] July 25th, 1874 were flour, 100,[illegible] cwts wheat, [illegible] cwts maize 4[illegible], [illegible] cwts oats, 211,782 cwts, barley 73,104 cwts, peas [illegible] cwts, beans [illegible] cwts, other grain [illegible] cwts. Total 1,855,[illegible] cwts.

The exports from the United Kingdom for the week ended July 25th 1874 were flour 3,911 cwts, wheat, [illegible] cwts, maize [illegible] cwts, oats [illegible] cwts, barley 70 cwts, peas 99 cwts. Total [illegible] cwts.

The supply for the week ended July [illegible]th 1874 comprising the farmers deliveries of home-grown wheat in the Kingdom plus the imports minus the exports was equal in flour and wheat to [illegible] qrs, against 400,000 qrs minimum and 423,000 qrs maximum weekly consumption, indicating a deficiency of supply of [illegible] to 118,[illegible] qrs for the week.

Beerbohm's London cable of August 12th 1874 reports the imports into the United Kingdom for the week ended Aug. 8th, 1874: Wheat, 19[illegible],000 to 200,000 qrs; Flour 4[illegible],000 to [illegible],000 bbls; Maize 1[illegible],000 to 160,000 qrs. Farmers' deliveries of home grown wheat in the 1[illegible] towns of England and Wales at [illegible],000 to 2[illegible],000 qrs (and in the Kingdom estimated at 8[illegible],000 to 100,000 qrs) which gave a supply for the week in wheat and flour of 3[illegible],125 to [illegible],[illegible] qrs against a weekly average consumption of [illegible],000 qrs minimum and 42[illegible],000 qrs maximum. The supply of maize for the week was [illegible],000 bush to [illegible],000 bush against an average weekly consumption of 534,000 bush. In 1872 and [illegible],000 bush in 18[illegible], which gives declining prices in London and Liverpool.

The wheat harvest in Scotland was expected to be commenced during the first week in August in the Lothians and will be general in the earlier counties in the second week in August, but in the inland and late localities the reaping of wheat will not be general till about the 1st of September, but even then the harvest will be unusually early. The wheat crop has every appearance of being a productive one.

Mr. Thos. C. Scott of the crops in the United Kingdom says: "The premature ripening of the corn crops, arising from continuous and excessive drought, had brought on the harvest a fortnight earlier than had been expected. I saw several fields of wheat cut [illegible] out and carried. The importance of this circumstance cannot be over estimated, as there are good data for believing that there is literally no home-grown wheat left in England and that nearly all the granaries of the world have been swept clean. In ordinary years this circumstance would have been a source of national regret because to make good flour and bread it is usually necessary to mix a certain quantity of the old wheat with the new, but this season the almost flinty character of the grain—barring unexpected wet weather—is such that it can go straight from the growers to the millers' hands. In quantity and weight wheat is unquestionably the crop of the season not only in this country but in all others. The area of land under wheat in the United Kingdom is undoubtedly excessive, [illegible] being probably 4,000,000 acres, and if this affords as I estimate it will an average of 32 bushels an acre the produce will be sixteen million quarters or within six million quarters of our old estimated consumption. This is less than half the foreign importation of 18[illegible] and than what is likely to be that of 187[illegible]. In inspecting the wheat throughout the Midland, Eastern, Western and southern counties I have scarcely found a defective wheat field anywhere. Barley in general is under an average crop, in certain districts it is a failure. Oats in England are under an average, in Scotland half a crop, and in Ireland barely an average. Potatoes are everywhere good and likely to be available for cattle food as a substitute for swedish turnips. Mangolds regular but small in bulb and not an average weight per acre. Swedish turnips are not half a crop and [illegible] occupy half the usual area. Heavy rains may improve them but cannot give half the usual supply of stock food.

The farmers' deliveries of home grown wheat in the 1[illegible] towns in England and Wales for the week ended August [illegible] were from 20,000 to 2[illegible],000 qrs and estimated deliveries in the Kingdom, 80,000 to 100,000 qrs. The weekly consumption is 400,000 to 423,000 qrs in the Kingdom, and in four weeks at this rate, would be 1,600,000 to 1,692,000 qrs. The expected arrivals of cargoes in transit on the 1st of August during the four weeks from August 1st, aggregate 572,000 qrs and the delivery of home growth if not increased from what they were the first week in August during the three remaining weeks at which rate [illegible] 1,0[illegible] to 1,0[illegible],000 qrs which will give a supply in four weeks from imports and home deliveries of [illegible],000 to [illegible],000 qrs against a consumption during same period of 1,600,000 to 1,692,000 qrs, indicating a deficiency in supply, not taking into the account the stock in granaries in the ten principal ports in the Kingdom of [illegible],000 to 880,000 qrs equal to [illegible],000,000 bushels. Such a deficiency would have a tendency to harden prices and that tendency would be augmented if rainy weather should prevail during the harvest.

Mr. T. C. Scott's estimate of the wheat crop is [illegible] in the United Kingdom is probably too large, as at this early stage of the harvest it must be extremely difficult to make a correct estimate and then 32 per acre is a very large average yield.

Miscellaneous.

Cotton picking in the Atlantic States is now in order. The first arrivals of new cotton at several Southern ports occurred on the 11th of August. The bale received at Selma, Alabama was classed strictly good ordinary and sold at 17c. The New York quotations for low middling for August delivery are 15[illegible]@16 [illegible]. The receipts since September 1, 1874, have been [illegible] bales, against [illegible] bales for the same time in the previous season. The total for the year will probably fall under 4,000,000 bales.

New York is generally conceded to be the leading shipping port of the United States. In no other port can there be seen so large a number of sailing craft. An analysis of the rig of these vessels shows that most of them belong to the bark and schooner class. Just now there are over 200 barks and 100 brigs lying at the wharves in New York or in the stream all engaged in the foreign trade. These small vessels are well adapted to the short voyages across the Atlantic and between European ports with reference to square riggers. However most people will be surprised to learn that San Francisco has a larger [illegible] in her foreign trade than New York.

According to the latest mail advices from England the iron trade in that country is still in a languid condition, purchasers looking forward to a substantial reduction in the cost of fuel and consequently in the price of iron as well. In Belgium there is a great deal of iron on sale but few consumers are buying, but prefer as they are looking forward to lower prices and are holding back their orders. In France and Germany a similar condition of things is prevailing.

The marine disaster during July, says the Philadelphia Ledger, of vessels belonging to or bound to or from ports in the United States numbered nineteen. The value of the vessels exclusive of their cargoes being $[illegible]. There were lost six barks, one brig and twelve schooners. No Philadelphia vessels are included in the list and it also omits the Pacific Mail Steamship Company's steamer City of Guatemala stranded on Watling Island, and the ship Warrior Queen ashore on the Gulf [illegible] coast.

Shipping Intelligence.

The steamship Ajax, hence for San Francisco will sail to-morrow evening, with freight and passengers. Her in-cargo consisted of [illegible] tons of assorted merchandise which she is discharging.

The steamer California from Sitka and intermediate ports arrived last night with a light cargo.

The barkentine Free Trade having taken on a few tons of produce at this point went down the river this morning to complete with salmon from the fisheries on the Columbia.

The [illegible] has completed the discharge of her cargo.

Home Produce Market.

WHEAT—We have but little new to note in this cereal. Very little comparatively of the new crop having yet changed hands in this market nor as yet has much been stored here. Offers are not apparently numerous though doubtless old export [illegible] figures suit producers we would see wheat enough. We expect a [illegible] the present condition of affairs in a fortnight. Quotations at present are $1 40@1 50 per cental.

FLOUR—The stocks are small but owing to a diminished demand for shipping, caused by the incoming of the product of the new wheat in California, the requirements of the trade here are easily met. A good article of extra is in fair supply [illegible] but a few brands of standard qualities are held at $[illegible] 50. Common country make is in the market in fair quantities for the season at $4 75@[illegible], [illegible] quality at [illegible] $[illegible] 50.

OATS—The market is inactive in this cereal and receipts are falling off, the shipping demand being rather duller. The quotations furnished are [illegible]@40c ⅌ bushel. The new crop is everywhere reported as yielding well and prices are more likely to decline than advance. The local demand is well supplied from the stocks on hand and current receipts.

BARLEY—But very few transactions are noted and these mostly to supply the local demand for brewing. Best lots are worth at [illegible] per cwt, including sacks, but for [illegible] for feed.

FEED—The stocks on hand here are quite small compared with former periods in the season but are still adequate to the current demand which is almost entirely local and as always light at this time in the summer. Sales are slow at the current rates which are $1[illegible] ton for bran, shorts $1[illegible], chopped middlings etc $20.

HAY—There is a great abundance of the new crop of timothy offering at $10@11 ⅌ ton baled, or $8 50@[illegible] for loose from wagons. The demand except for local consumption is very dull.

POTATOES—There is no lack either in quantity or variety of the new crop now coming to hand. [illegible] range from [illegible]@50c ⅌ bushel.

ONIONS—Choice [illegible] of the new crop command 2 cents ⅌ lb but common lots are quotable at 1½ cents. The receipts are limited.

Ordinance No. 1539.

AN ORDINANCE AUTHORIZING A CONTRACT for the erection of Street Lamps and for repairs thereto.

The City of Portland does ordain as follows:

Section 1. The Committee on Streets and Public Property are hereby authorized to advertise for proposals and enter into contract with the lowest responsible bidder or bidders for the term of one year for furnishing and erecting such Street Lamps as may be ordered and for the repairs and alteration of the Lamps now or which may be hereafter erected.

Section 2. The contract shall be based upon fixed prices for the several classes of work, viz.

For iron lamp-posts of the style now in use and weighing not less than [illegible] pounds, including setting up and painting two coats.

Lanterns of the style now in use of the heaviest tin adapted to the work painted inside white outside chrome green two coats, glass to be clear and without flaw. The names of the streets shall be painted in black letters on the outside of the two upper lights facing inwards.

For lanterns for Oil Lamps to be of the best quality of tin of the size now in use and to be provided with the B slip sun burner or any other pattern of the same size which the Committee may consider an improvement thereon.

Fixtures for Lamps intended for gas, including burners, pillar cocks, bend, thirteen feet of pipe and the labor necessary to complete the work except making connections.

For extra pipe per foot of the following sizes, [illegible], [illegible], 1, 1¼, and 1½ inch.

For making connection with Gas Company's main if wrought iron.

For making connection if cast iron.

The pipes to be so laid as to prevent the necessity of a drip when practicable; when not, the extra charge for putting in drip to be specified.

The price of pipe and making connection to include the excavation and filling up the street.

For taking up and putting down plank crosswalks per lineal foot.

For taking up and putting down Nicholson Pavement per lineal foot.
